SINCE the removal of Brigham, fifty-five of his consular partners have hung their cards back on the outer walls of the bar with cards marked, "not at home."

THE Lincolnites had better prepare for the worst. Several Omahawks have already filed applications for Capital removal commissions with our legislative candidates, and the cry is still they come.

THE Bourbons proclaim their intention to carry Missouri by $50,000 majority. If the province of their constitution after the year 1875 to those who can read and write, is in effect now, we opine the Democratic majority would dwindle down to 25,000 on the other side of the political ledger.

WASHINGTON Judges are remarkably tender and touchy if the following case, reported to us by telegraph, may be taken as a fair sample. While a case was being tried before Judge Humphrey, in the Criminal Court, one of the jurors passed a side remark that displeased the Court, whereupon the Judge announced that he would grant a recess, remarking that he had been informed that one of the jurors, a Mr. Time, was in the habit of carrying a brick in his hat, and closing with the admonition that he did not want it to occur again.

Mr. Time exclaimed, "I often heard of you getting drunk your honor, but I did not believe a damned word of it." Strange to relate, Mr. Time was immediately called to the bar and discharged from the jury.

Full Account of the Conduct of Count Von Arnim While Ambassador at Paris.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18. Major Harry Larkyns, a journalist, was shot dead at Calistoga, by Meyerbridge, an artist, for supposed interference with marital relations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. The leading Democratic politicians here say the result of the recent western elections is already being felt here, and claim that its immediate effect has been to largely increase the Democratic chances at the coming elections in this State.

BOSTON, October 18. A special to the Globe says that four prisoners escaped from the Suffolk County Jail, this afternoon at five o'clock, by knocking down the jailer, Mr. Littlefield, with a bottle, and overpowering the turnkey, who accompanied him. One convict, named Smith, was shot and reported to be dying. The three others escaped, but have been recaptured. Mr. Littlefield was badly hurt about the head.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. The police are at work on the extraordinary robber case developed yesterday, involving a loss of $100,000. The reward offered by the victim, Mr. Bryant, stimulating them to still greater efforts. Bryant says he has lived a sort of hermit life for the past forty years, and was opposed to placing his money in the banks. He had made his will so that his friends could get it in the event of his death. He thinks he has been watched for years by the persons who have now robbed him. It is thought by the police that there were three robbers in the party.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 18. About 5 o'clock this morning the Baltimore express train on the Marietta and Cincinnati railroad due here at 6 o'clock, ran through a bridge at Ohanyon, a short distance east of Loveland, instantly killing the engineer and fireman. The bridge is a double span about 150 feet long; the eastern span is over the roadway, and the western over Ohanyon's creek. The engineer and fireman were extricated with great difficulty from the wreck. Hardly an hour had elapsed when the engineer, leaving a family in Chillicothe. The fireman, also leaves a wife and three children at the same place.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. A Herald special from London, gives what purports to be the correct version from a reliable source of the recent arrest of Count Von Arnim. It says: "The cessation of hostilities between Germany and France in the spring of 1871, imposed upon Bismarck the task of perfecting the work of the informal treaty, the necessary result of which was that the Chancellor should have the aid of an experienced diplomatist in arranging the necessary papers. The only one available at that time was Count Von Arnim, to whom it was confided under Bismarck's personal supervision the preparation of the treaty of peace and the obligations of the part of France. Von Arnim was sent to Paris in the winter of 1871-72, as Ambassador explicitly charged to maintain the most favorable and agreeable course in all his dealings with the French officials. Bismarck himself prepared instructions which were to guide Count Von Arnim in his new position. No sooner had the ambassador presented his credentials and been formally received by Thiers than he began to make himself offensive to every body connected with the French government. His first step was most extraordinary and unprecedented. Addressing the Emperor William privately and confidentially, he expressed his disapproval of the policy of Bismarck as unworthy of the government, and exhorting his familiarity on the ground that he could confidentially communicate through the foreign office. This was the beginning of the correspondence between Bismarck, as Chancellor, and Von Arnim as ambassador, which lasted the early part of last spring, comprising eighty-two communications which Von Arnim withdrew from the archives of the embassy in Paris, and which the German government thought the criminal court at Berlin now seeks to recover letters of Von Arnim to the Emperor was promptly sent to the Chancellor, resulting in a short imperative note to the Count that correspondence on matters relating to policy and the interest of the empire must be held only with the foreign office, which Von Arnim refused; it was therefore determined to forbear public recognition of Von Arnim's course as to such time as it could be done without scandal to diplomatic relations of Germany with France. The next step was to indirectly engage the French press in a quarrel. From time to time articles appeared in the leading Paris journals antagonistic to Bismarck; the office commenced an investigation, and was soon satisfied that Von Arnim was secretly plotting against the peace of the empire, and doing all in his power to embarrass the relations between Paris and Berlin. When Von Arnim was directed by Bismarck to assure McMahon of the entente cordiale on the part of Germany toward France, Von Arnim replied that he was not on good terms with McMahon, and could not communicate with him. Bismarck forcibly replied, "do maintain friendly relations with the French government. In January last, matters however, reached the crisis, and there was but one remedy, to recall Von Arnim and send in his stead Constantine. He was delivered and ordered to Turkey a letter was received at the Berlin foreign office from Chief of Records of the Paris embassy stating that eighty-two confidential letters belonging to the archives of the negotiation were missing and there was no explanation for it. They were the reproving letters of Bismarck to the Count, containing the whole history of Count Von Arnim, to prejudice the Emperor against his Chancellor. Whether the higher court of appeal will sustain Von Arnim's claim of a proprietary right in the letters in question is a matter of some importance to the Emperor and to every other government recognizing the usages of society.

BUFFALO, October 17. The Courier this morning authoritatively denies the statement published by the Suspension Bridge Journal, that the works of the Niagara River Company at Ironton had suspended, owing to the chilling of the blast furnace. An officer of the company stated that the furnace or boiler clinker had developed in the furnace, which cannot easily be accounted for. Work is to be resumed in thirty days.

JEROME PARK, October 17. Today is the pleasantest day of the fall meeting of the American Jockey Club. The programme is an excellent one, consisting of six races altogether. WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. The Republican of this morning says: "It is about time that something was done with the Plympton Company and the envelope contract. The public are tired of the whole thing and newspapers are beginning to get sick of the discussion. Day after day we are called upon to print paragraphs on the subject, which are really apologies for the non-performance of a contract which the Plympton people entered into, but which, it seems, they are unable to perform. The only way out of the present difficulty which department can see now, is to re-advertise for thirty days, meanwhile the public will suffer all the inconvenience which the leading postmasters of the country declare they are suffering. If the contract can be given to the next lowest bidder, it is an old law of the century against it, let us have the advertisement of an end of the matter. The Postmaster General has introduced a great many reforms in his department."

In the present conflict between the contractors there is great danger that he will lose the popularity he has acquired, and thereby tamely resign his administration. Let the company be indulged as much as possible, but not at the expense of the public.
